URSU to connect students with candidates

April 5, 2011 the University of Regina Students' Union (URSU) will host a federal election candidate forum featuring candidates in the Wascana riding. Vice President External Affairs, Kaytlyn Barber, states, "With students in their last week of classes, it is an important opportunity to engage with local candidates before their focus returns to exams."

The forum will be held in the Multipurpose Room of Riddell Centre at the University of Regina beginning at 12:30 p.m., and the public is welcome to join. "We hope that candidates are mindful of the needs of students in our country, and the forum will provide a chance to discuss party platforms and what they mean for students and young people," states Barber.

Candidates have agreed to be filmed for the duration of the forum, to be posted online by URSU for students unable to attend due to their academic commitments. Bill Clary (Green Party), Ralph Goodale (Liberals) and Marc Spooner (New Democrats) have confirmed attendance for the event. Conservative candidate, Ian Shields, has sent his regrets.
