

Colin Keith (Candidate Board of Directors – Faculty of Arts)

I graduated from the U of R with a Business Diploma (DipBA) in 2011. I have recently decided to return to the U of R to pursue an Arts degree majoring in Psychology. Having started in the Arts faculty initially before going into Business Administration, I saw the value that the Arts programs have to offer students in terms of critical thinking, verbal and written communication skills.

Outside of my Academic pursuits, I love being a part of the community. I am regular volunteer for the Regina Symphony Orchestra and URSU / Campus events. I was on the Board of Directors for Heritage Regina for 3 years and am comfortable with and knowledgeable with how Boards work and how to productively be a part of them to implement change. If I were to be successful to represent the Arts Faculty, I would do my absolute best to engage with Arts students to express and capitalize on the value an Arts Degree can give an individual outside of getting a job or pursuing graduate studies. I would do so by bringing in speakers on varying topics. I would also work together with campus clubs and associations to get students engaged in creative ways that add value to their academic pursuits. Additionally I want to work forward to making these clubs an affordable rate for students through sponsorships and fundraising.
