

Hello, my name is Eric Horbal. This is my first year at the University of Regina, and I'm working towards a degree in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics in the Faculty of Arts. I chose to complete a degree in the Arts due to the wide range of programs that are offered. Arts degrees provide a foundational skill-set to the leaders and successful citizens of tomorrow. The Faculty of Arts provides the tools necessary to succeed, and that is why I want to represent you as Faculty of Arts Director.

Outside of my academic involvement, I enjoy being a member of the wider community. I volunteer as a curling instructor for youth curlers just beginning the sport. I was the president of my high school's SRC in my senior year. I was involved in my school band programs as an avid percussionist, and I maintain my involvement in community curling, as well as the University of Regina curling club. My personal interests include going on jogs, swimming out at the lake, reading, and keeping up-to-date with political news. My personal interest in political affairs has translated into my ambition to become the next director of the Faculty of Arts. I want to be a representative of the student body that helps listen to everyone's perspectives. I want to be someone that is trustworthy who can inspire real, meaningful change. After being in a pandemic for the past year-and-a-half, I want to hear what matters most to students; whether that is changing bureaucratic processes, improving clubs, or just providing an ear to listen to problems. A vote for me as Faculty of Arts director will guarantee your voice will be heard, and that positive change will take place.
